Circuit Judge Tom Jones reviews the docket following his last day in court last Friday. Looking on is Lee County Constable Jonathan Shuler, who serves as bailiff.

Court adjourned

Jones' final bench appearance in Lee

After eight years on the bench, the last person Judge Tom Jones sent to prison was 34-year-old Jason Reynolds.

Friday, in Lee Circuit Court, Reynolds was sentenced to three years for violating the terms of his diversion.

It was also the last day that Jones would hear cases. He leaves the bench January 4 to re-enter private law and to be the Master Commissioner and Domestic Relations Commissioner for the judicial circuit.

Estill County attorney Michael Dean, who has held those to positions, will replace Jones.

Also Friday, 31-year-old Ashley McIntosh was sentenced to nine years after having her probation revoked. She admitted to failing to complete drug court. She also has another case over her head. A pretrial hearing is set for January 7 in a case where McIntosh is charged with promoting contraband in the first degree and being a persistent felony offender in the second degree. Judge Jones told her that any sentence she might receive in that case could be added on to her nine years.

Michael D. Fox, 37, was also sentenced to nine years. He had previously entered a guilty plea.

David T. Stamper, 31, entered a guilty plea Friday to promoting contraband in the first degree. He had four suboxone strips on him while in the Three Forks Regional Jail. The Commonwealth is recommending one year to be consecutive with five years in an Estill County case. Sentencing will be January 23.

Extensive discussion was held in the murder case of 55-year-old Madeline Lykins. Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Kristin Clouse requested a different trial date because DNA evidence had only arrived last Friday. The case is set for trial on January 20.

Defense Attorney Miranda Stevens-King objected, saying that her client has been in jail for a year on a $250,000 cash bond. She said Lykins' family could post a $100,000 property bond. She said that if Jones would not reduce the bond, then the evidence should be excluded since it came in so late.

Clouse argued there was no legal reason to disallow the evidence. She said that when the trial date was set she had expressed her concern that the evidence might not be back in time.

Jones said that excluding the evidence would be a "severe sanction" on the Commonwealth.

He suggested keeping the January 20 date, and seeing if expert witnesses who would testify on the evidence could make that date.

King said that she also needs to look at the evidence.

Jones decided to keep the trial date and set January 7 as a pretrial date for finding the status of evidence review and availability of expert witnesses.

He said the new judge, Dean, would look at the matter, "with a fresh set of eyes."

Lykins is charged with the 2013 murder of her husband.

Steven D. Fugate, 44, pled guilty to promoting contraband in the first degree. He had two neurontin, 1 Xanax and one suboxone strip on his person while in the Three Forks Regional Jail. The Commonwealth is recommending one year. Sentencing is set for January 16.

Last month Fugate had requested to not be sent to jail until after Christmas. At that time, Jones said he would see if he were visited by three spirits. Apparently, the visits occurred because the judge agreed to let Fugate out of jail until sentencing.

The judge entered a bench warrant for 43-year-old Shelby Kincaid because he was not in court when his case was called. However, he came in later, saying that he had to walk from Mill Creek, and it had taken him four hours.

He had missed a court appearance once before. He told the judge that he had gone to a doctor, and could not make it back in time.

Jones ordered a drug test for Kincaid, which came back positive for suboxone and Percocet.

Kincaid said he has a prescription for suboxone, and claimed it was "impossible" for him to have Percocet in his system. He said he had been given one a year and a half before, and it had made him ill.

Jones said he would check on the prescription, but told Kincaid he would have to go to jail.

Kincaid is charged with burglary in the third degree and theft by unlawful taking over $500, but under $10,000.

The Commonwealth moved to dismiss the case against Josh Charles Angel, 27, because he is on federal probation after serving 31 months in prison. Jones dismissed the case without prejudice. Angel had been charged with first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance.

Marsha Marcum, 33, was released from custody after Clouse said she had no objection. A diversion revocation hearing had been set, but was continued until February 20 until a private-party case is resolved in Owsley County.

Jones told her he had been surprised to see her in court the first time and the second time. He asked her if she had an affection for the jail. She said she did not.

She then said, "I'm sorry Tom."

Jones said it was his last day on the bench, but she should address him in a more proper way.

Clouse asked that the case against Randy Clemmons, 37, be dismissed because, "The victim does not want to pursue these charges anymore. The case was dismissed without prejudice.

A diversion revocation hearing for Richard A. Robinson, 27, was set for January 16.

Jones said he would review the contempt citation for 25-year-old Shelby E. Turner. The charges are feeing or evading police in the first degree, receiving stolen property, wanton endangerment in the first degree and persistent felony offender in the second degree.

Jones approved a motion for Ashley Shuler (no age given) to make payment to the clerk, which will then be distributed to the Beattyville Police Department. It had originally been a case worked by Operation UNITE.

For unto us a child is born

Luke 2:1-38

¹ In those days Caesar Augustus issued a decree that a census should be taken of the entire Roman world. ² (This was the first census that took place while Quirinius was governor of Syria.) ³ And everyone went to his own town to register. ⁴ So Joseph also went up from the town of Nazareth in Galilee to Judea, to Bethlehem the town of David, because he belonged to the house and line of David. ⁵ He went there to register with Mary, who was pledged to be married to him and was expecting a child. ⁶ While they were there, the time came for the baby to be born, ⁷ and she gave birth to her firstborn, a son. She wrapped him in cloths and placed him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn. ⁸ And there were shepherds living out in the fields nearby, keeping watch over their flocks at night. ⁹ An angel of the Lord appeared to them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were terrified. ¹⁰ But the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid. I bring you good news of great joy that will be for all the people. ¹¹ Today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you; he is Christ the Lord. ¹² This will be a sign to you: You will find a baby wrapped in cloths and lying in a manger." ¹³ Suddenly a great company of the heavenly host appeared with the angel, praising God and saying, ¹⁴ "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace to men on whom his favor rests." ¹⁵ When the angels had left them and gone into heaven, the shepherds said to one another, "Let's go to Bethlehem and see this thing that has happened, which the Lord has told us about." ¹⁶ So they hurried off and found Mary and Joseph, and the baby, who was lying in the manger. ¹⁷ When they had seen him, they spread the word concerning what had been told them about this child, ¹⁸ and all who heard it were amazed at what the shepherds said to them. ¹⁹ But Mary treasured up all these things and pondered them in her heart. ²⁰ The shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things they had heard and seen, which were just as they had been told. ²¹ On the eighth day, when it was time to circumcise him, he was named Jesus, the name the angel had given him before he had been conceived.

It's the True Meaning of Christmas

Submitted by Sharron Adams

Sharron & Chelsea Adams

Chelsea Adams is a graduate student studying educational psychology at the University of Kentucky. She wanted to do something meaningful for both the young and elderly this Christmas. That's how the True Meaning of Christmas Project was born.

The project included a day with craft and cookie decorating, and a reading of the Christmas Story for all children wishing to attend this past Saturday; and Christmas gifts of hand-tied "blankets of love to warm the soul" for all the residents at the Lee County Personal Care Home.

Chelsea's Mamaw, Fanny Gilbert, has been a resident at the Lee County Personal Care Home for the past three years. Through visiting her Mamaw, Chelsea and her mom, Sharron Adams, have become friends with several of the residents. They each have a story to share if one takes the time to listen.

To share the True Meaning of Christmas, Chelsea created a Facebook Page providing the opportunity for everyone to become familiar with the project and participate if they wished. Through this page, and by word of mouth, many helping hands made it possible to not only provide hand-tied blankets for all 92 residents, but gift bags as well.

Special thanks goes to the following people who donated items and/or tied blankets to help make the True Meaning of Christmas come to life for the young and old alike: Beattyville Woman's Club, Leslie Cable and her Pound Class Ladies, family, friends, church family, students and co-workers.

Chinese youth performs!

Submitted by Allen Booth

Last Sunday, members of the Beattyville Assembly of God (Pastors Keith and Stacy Holley) were treated to the amazing piano performance of Yang Si Yi, from Yunnan Kunming, China. To the great delight of the congregation, she not only played a prelude for both the morning and evening services, but played “Etude in E Flat Minor,” by Chopin and “Clair de Lune” by Debussy for offertories. This 16-year-old arrived in Cincinnati last summer to study in the States where she is continuing her musical training as well. She is the guest of Allen and Cecille Booth.

The naked and the bed

It's cool to sleep in the buff and that's good for you, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens. Dr. Chris Idzikowski, Director of Scotland's Edinburgh Sleep Centre, says "the advantage of sleeping naked is it's easier for the body to cool and maintain the lower temperature the brain wants to achieve."

He's written a book about sleep called, Sound Asleep: The Expert Guide to Sleeping Well." In it he also advises the older folks among us, who might be tempted to wear bed socks on those nights when it may be a bit brisk, to swap them out for a hot water bottle.

'Bed socks don't allow you to lose heat from your feet, so you'll end up too hot. Hot water bottles get your feet warm, but then they cool down or can be kicked out of the way."

The National Sleep Foundation says one third of American adults sleep in the nude and that many of them report the practice offers a variety of health benefits. They also say it makes for a better love life, according to AMAC.

Seniors have extra brain power

The Association of Mature American Citizens reports that a new study at Duke University shows that older may have an edge when it comes to the hectic chore of shopping for the holidays.

Nichole Lighthall, a post-doctoral researcher at Duke's Center for Cognitive Neuroscience, put it this way: 'for healthy older adults, even though their memory might not be as good, they can naturally recruit other brain regions that are not typically involved in the task. It seems that it allows them to perform at a higher level.'

The study found that seniors have the ability to access the brain's ventromedial prefrontal cortex when decision making becomes more demanding. The next step, say the researchers, is to find ways to promote easier and greater access to that part of the brain among the elderly.

Are you having a hard time writing cards and buying presents for loved ones this Christmas? The Association of Mature American Citizens suggests you take a tip from 82-year-old Mary Scholey of Yorkshire, England. She manages to do those chores with a smile each year, despite the fact that she has ten children and a total of 80 grandchildren and great grandchildren.

And, AMAC points out, she has four more great grandchildren on the way. "My mum is simply amazing," says her son, Stephen Gregory. "She gets through packs of Christmas cards. She writes the majority of the cards herself and she goes to local markets to find presents. It's a massive task for her. I don't know how she does it."

SIGHT TO BEHOLD

Over 80% of what we learn comes through our eyes, making them our most important connection to the world around us. While we may take our vision for granted, there is no underestimating the critical demands our eyes make for their continued good health and proper functioning. The brain and visual system account for only two percent of our body weight, yet they consume about 25% of our nutritional intake. Thus, adhering to good nutritional habits can play a big role in how well we see. In addition, although regular checkups are important for maintaining and/or correcting vision, most Americans are overdue for an eye exam. If you are one of them, do your eyes a favor and schedule an appointment.

This informative column has been brought to you as a public service in the interest of better eye health. At KENTUCKY EYE INSTITUTE, we encourage our patients to have regular eye examinations because many eye problems develop without obvious symptoms and are not noticed by the patient until damage has occurred. Please call 606.666-9393 to schedule an appointment. We're located at 540 Jett Drive. We specialize in "EYE CARE FOR ALL AGES."

LIGHT AT CHRISTMAS TIME

Submitted my Billy Davis

ILLUMINATION

The Bible was written by inspiration. We see it (preach it) under illumination. The Holy Spirit inspired the writers, that is revealed to us by illumination, by the Holy Spirit – that is light. We see – our spiritual eyes are opened by illumination to the message – that is what is known as "Ramah." A woman lost a coin, and was searching for it at a corner. She asked a man to help her. They looked forever, so long a time, finding nothing. Finally, he said, "Just where did you drop it?" She replied, "Well, I dropped it at the next corner, but there was light here." She knew the value of light. And we, if we are going to get understanding, must know the value of light – illumination.

BRIGHTNESS

Every thing about Jesus and Christmas is brightness. There is no darkness within him at all. "The light shineth in the darkness," and one version has it we (would) was not able to put it out.

Merry Christmas
From the Enterprise

A different view

By Betty Crabtree

Matthew 5:44 says, Love your enemies (those antagonistic, hostile toward you) bless (in this context it means to act kindly) those who curse (meaning to invoke evil or injury; swear at) you, do good to those who hate you, and pray for those who despitely (meaning to mistreat, speak maliciously against) use you and persecute (to harass with cruel or oppressive treatment) you. An archaic term for despitely is to have contempt for; hatred. Contempt? The state of being despised. It's interesting that in Verse 43 Jesus said, "You have heard that it was said, 'You shall love your neighbor and hate your enemy.'" Did you know that the 'hate your enemy' was added by the Pharisees? In Leviticus 19 the Lord spoke to Moses telling him to speak to all the congregation of the children of Israel, giving them the Moral and Ceremonial Law. In Verse 18 we read, "You shall not take vengeance, nor bear any grudges against the children of your people, but you shall love your neighbor as yourself; I am the Lord." The adding to or taking away from the Word is not something I would want to do! Back to Verse 44 in Matthew 5 when Jesus said, "Love your enemies..." We love by choice not circumstances. The choice is ours. I say quite often that there are consequences to every choice, good or bad. When Stephen was being stoned to death (Acts 7:59) he chose to love, forgive, when he said, "Lord lay not this sin to their charge." He made a choice. No bitterness or railing against his accusers, he was exhibiting love for his enemies. How do you react when unjustly lied about or when in a difficult situation? Something to think about, agreed?

Missionary Guests at Beattyville Assembly

Submitted by Allen Booth

Beattyville Assembly of God hosted Josh and Buffy Adams and their three children, Daisy, Brooke, and Sam, as they shared their missionary vision for East Africa. They will be working in an undisclosed location with the "Live Dead" missionary arm of the Assembly of God. Since they will be going as a family, the children also had to undergo rigorous training. They said that the worst part was when they had to eat bugs! Pictured: (front row, l. to r.) Gestures of remembrance aren't what they used to be; they're better.

No longer are gestures like lighting a candle in memory restricted by distance or busy schedules. This virtual candle lighting allows families to share a symbolic and loving ritual across the street, or across the country. Visit our website to learn more.

Kehler joins 1,000 point club

Submitted by Denise Spencer

On Friday, December 12, Madison Kehler shot the 1,000th point of her high school basketball career. Last year she was in the top 25 in the state in scoring, and was voted to the All-Region Team. Madison is the daughter of Noelle Kehler of Crystal Creek Subdivision in Beattyville. She is a junior at Oneida Baptist Institute in Oneida, Kentucky. Before the OBI varsity home game on December 16, Madison was recognized for her accomplishment and was presented with a commemorative basketball. She is pictured with head coach, Ryan Cordle, and assistant athletic director, Frank Stratton.

Brooke Addison

Brooke Addison is a senior at Lee County High School. Brooke is the daughter of Belinda Addison. During high school, Brooke has been a member of the softball team, the volleyball team, Future Christian Athletes, Future Farmers of America, and Future Business Leaders of America. Her favorite class has been FFA, and her favorite teachers are Mrs. Cable, Mr. Wright, and Mr. Bennett. Brooke says her favorite high school memory will be graduation. Brooke plans on attending ECU and then transferring to another university for dentistry school. Brooke's favorite quote is, "Never give up! Everything happens for a reason! Just trust that the Lord will guide you."

Johna Walker

Johna Walker is a senior at Lee County High School. Johna is the daughter of Angie Becknell. Johna is a member of the Basketball team, FFA, BETA, HOSA, Bobcat Talk, Key Club, Drug Prevention, and FCA. Her favorite class was P.E. her freshman year and all her health science classes. Her favorite teachers are Mrs. Combs, Mrs. Hall, Mr. Wright, and Mr. Bennett. When asked what her favorite memory was, she revealed that it was the sophomore basketball trip to Louisville and making it to regions. When asked what she will miss most about high school, Johna said she would miss seeing her friends' lovely faces. Johna's future plan is to become a physical therapist. Johna's favorite quote is, "Don't tell me the sky's the limit, when there are footprints on the moon."

David Taulbee

David Taulbee is a senior at Lee County High School. He is the son of Kathryn Taulbee. David's favorite class is Automotives, and his favorite teacher is Mr. Lucas. During high school, David is a member of video game club. His favorite memory of high school is when he got his nickname. David said he will miss the biscuits and gravy most after high school. His favorite quote is, "Man can live twenty-one days without food, three days without water, and one second without hope." David's future plans are to become a Marine Biologist.

This is a sample of some of our awesome Southside talent! These third grade students are in the classes of Matt Coleman and Charla White. We are very proud of all our students!

Christmas

By Tyler G.

Christ has been born today
Here on Earth in Bethlehem
Retrieving gifts after birth
Is he God's son? Why, yes he is
So it's true, he healed a crippled man
That whosoever believes in Him shall Make Him pleased and deserves
A reward and they shall never die
Some scientists say he's a myth, but I say he's real!

Gifts

Give them at Christmas
I know a lot of people who do not get many
For friends and family
The price doesn't matter
Some people only want one that comes from the heart.

Present

By Allison R.

You by that tree
You make me wonder
Are you for me?
You have a big red bow on top of your head and a silky suit with stripes

When I wake up the next day
I see you and my parents too.
When I open you
I feel love
Then I close my eyes
and I feel a little kiss on my nose.
I get four, sister gets three, mom and dad get two of you

You are wrapped in green and red I don't care if you're a box or just a toy I just want to know, Do the other people feel the joy you bring?

The Sun's Supersized Atmosphere

By Alex H. Kasprak

National Aeronautics and Space Administration

Like Earth, the sun has an atmosphere with layers in it. The outermost layer is called the corona, and it's a wild mess of activity. Scientists have long known about the corona. It is home to some spectacular shows—giant eruptions called Coronal Mass Ejections, loops, prominences, and massive magnetic storms.

Using NASA data, scientists recently made a shocking discovery about this solar region. It's much bigger than they thought! While the sun is nearly 900,000 miles wide, the corona actually extends five million miles above the sun's surface. In other words, the sun's atmosphere is six times wider than the sun itself!

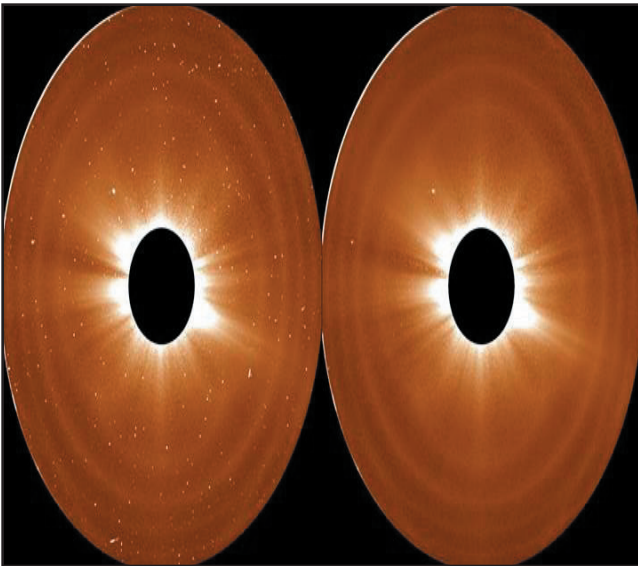

Scientists made this discovery by looking at waves rippling through the area surrounding the sun. These waves are called magnetosonic waves. They can be seen passing through the corona as they move away from the sun. Once the corona becomes too thin, they can no longer be viewed. No more wave? No more corona!

These magnetosonic waves are pretty wild, too. They are a bit like sound waves and a bit like a weird kind of magnetic wave. Sound waves cannot be heard in space, since there is nothing for them to pass through to get to Earth. And sound waves are too small to be viewed from afar. Magnetosonic waves, though, are about 10 times the length of Earth. With some clever work, scientists figured out a way to see them with a pair of NASA satellites in orbit around the sun.

The discovery that the corona is so large is an important one. Before this discovery, scientists thought they had a pretty good idea where the sun's atmosphere ended and where the rest of space began. They couldn't be happier that they were wrong.

That's because NASA is working on a new spacecraft that will travel to the sun. It will go closer to the sun than any previous mission. When NASA started working on it, they weren't sure if it would actually travel through the corona itself. With this new discovery, they now know for sure that it will!

The corona is still full of unanswered questions. Read about one of the corona's more confusing mysteries at NASA's Space Place: <http://spaceplace.nasa.gov/sun-corona>.

Images from NASA's Solar Terrestrial Relations Observatory that show waves traveling through the corona. The sun itself is blocked out to make the corona easier to view. Credit: NASA/STEREO.

Homemakers holiday program

Submitted by Ted Johnson, CEA for Agriculture

The Lee County Homemakers enjoyed their Holiday Program held on December 16th from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. at the Lee County Extension Service. Linda Combs, Knott County CEA for Family & Consumer Sciences, presented the "Money Matters for the Holidays Program" for the group. She presented several holiday gift and craft ideas for the ladies plus delicious sugar roasted pecans for a taste sample.

The "Money Matters for the Holidays Program" is a booklet of craft ideas and nutritious recipes combined in a booklet compiled by the Quicksand Area Family & Consumer Sciences Agents.

These craft and recipes are designed to be not only nutritious, holiday recipes and beautiful, homemade craft ideas for the family budget. The Holiday Road Show presented by the Quicksand Area Family & Consumer Sciences is always one of the homemakers favorite programs of the year.

The Lee County Extension has additional copies of the "Money Matters for the Holidays Program" booklet available for anyone that would like a copy. The Lee County Extension Service and the Lee County Homemakers would like to extend a SPECIAL THANK YOU TO ALL OF THE QUICKSAND AREA FAMILY AND CONSUMER SCIENCES AGENTS for the educational programs that they have presented for our ladies this year.

Indictment of former Lee County caregiver

Attorney General Jack Conway and his Medicaid Fraud and Abuse Control Unit today announced the indictment and arraignment of a former caregiver on a charge of defrauding the Kentucky Medicaid program. This morning, 49-year-old Yvette Horvath was arraigned in Lee Circuit Court on one count of Medicaid fraud.

Horvath worked as a caregiver for Rock Arch Refuge, a company based in Lee County that provides Medicaid-funded services to disabled patients. Horvath is accused of submitting false timesheets from September 2013 to January 2014 for caretaking services that she did not perform, resulting in a loss to the Kentucky Medicaid program of more than $5,000.

Horvath's indictment in the result of a broader investigation of Medicaid-funded, in-home caregiving companies located in Jessamine, Fayette and Lee counties. The investigation was conducted by Attorney General Conway's Medicaid Fraud and Abuse Control Unit and the Cabinet for Health and Family Services' Office of the Inspector General. To date, the investigation has yielded three additional felony convictions involving Medicaid fraud.

A charge is merely an accusation. A defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

Medicaid Recoveries

Since Attorney General Conway took office in January 2008, his Office of Medicaid

Fraud and Abuse Control has recovered or been awarded more than $280 million for the state and federal Medicaid programs. These cases range from lawsuits and settlements against pharmaceutical companies to cases against individual providers.

In 2013, General Conway's Medicaid Fraud Unit was named one of the most aggressive in the country by the nonprofit watchdog group Public Citizen.

The Attorney General's tip line for reporting allegations of Medicaid fraud is 1-877-228-7384.

4 1/2 to 1

61% of Kentuckians say newspapers are their primary source for advertising information .

13% mentioned another medium.

That's a 4 1/2-to-1 advantage for newspapers.

If it were a basketball game, you'd be leaving at half-time.

It's all right here. In the newspaper.

This fact brought to you by the Kentucky Press Association and its 162 member newspapers.
